

Canadian School
of Peacebuilding

AN INSTITUTE OF CANADIAN MENNONITE UNIVERSITY

June 13–17 & 20–24, 2016

Peacemaking Circles: Philosophy and Applications | June 20–24

Instructor: Kay Pranis

This course will explore the values and philosophy of the peacemaking circle process, acknowledging its indigenous origins. The course will look at use of the process in the justice system, social services, faith communities, neighborhoods, schools and families. The course will be conducted in the peacemaking circle format and will be highly interactive, using the life experience of all the participants as a teaching resource.

Kay Pranis conducts training on peacemaking circles and restorative justice across the US and internationally. Kay facilitates and has helped develop the use of peacemaking circles in the justice system, social services, education, faith communities, neighborhoods and families. She is the author of several books.

Other CSOP courses explore include indigenous peacebuilding, peace skills, trauma healing, community development, peacemaking circles, and arts and peacebuilding.

“An excellent space to build relationships and learn from others through their stories.”

—Amanda Jongstra, CSOP participant

APPLY NOW FOR 2016

For more information, go to csop.cmu.ca or e-mail csop@cmu.ca

Come this summer to learn with other peacebuilders—local and international, young and old, students, practitioners, and those new to peacebuilding—at the eighth annual Canadian School of Peacebuilding. We invite you to participate in your choice of five-day courses for personal or professional development ($542/course) or academic credit ($748/course).